Embellishments

- If someone were to pick up our project and continue working on it to improve upon its current status, the following recommendations are made.
- A smoother and more efficient method to playing and stopping the artist's music samples.
- It would be wise to improve upon the user interface and create a more user friendly, clear format of the information.
- To include a broader demographic it is possibly important to add new genres of music.
- It would make the program more attractive if the user could input their own opinionated ratings and the program show display the average artist rating.
- Add a brief descriptions of the inspirations of the artist to help the user understand their music more clearly.
- With a GUI make it possible to interact with mouse mainly rather than keyboard.
